Selection of thermal circuit protection devices is made easier than ever before

LOMBARD, IL, June 02, 2010 - Mechanical Products Company (MP) today announced the release of a new website powered by ThomasNet® Web Solutions technology. The renovated website provides easy searching and navigation of detailed product information, and provides users a library of white papers and presentations to effectively understand industry requirements and circuit breaker terminology. Users will find inquiry forms and contact information effortlessly, so they can quickly get the answers they need.

In addition to a library catalog of over 700 part numbers, each with unique data sheets, the new website offers users the flexibility to easily request a quote, sample, or additional information on any item.

The “About Us” section features the latest information regarding our Engineering Capabilities, Testing Facilities and a list of Certifications our products can meet.

The “Contact Us” section indicates the location of our engineering and headquarters offices, and provides users with flash-technology based map that clearly indicates our manufacturer’s rep and distribution networks.

“This new website will significantly enhance our company’s ability to market our circuit protection products,” says Darrick Santa Maria, Director, Business Development. “The wealth of information and ease of use will equip our customers to make the best purchasing decision for their circuit protection needs. We are very excited to be at the forefront of web-based technology”
